Biometrics Collection, Transmission, Retention and Destruction For the purposes of this Policy, biometrics may include an individuals physiological characteristics that can be used, singly or in combination with each other or with other identifying data, to establish individual identity.

Non-Personal Data (66.5%), Personal Data (89.1%):

Examples of biometrics may include, but are not limited to, imagery of the iris, retina, fingerprint, face, hand, palm, vein patterns, and voice recordings, from which a template, such as a faceprint, a minutiae template, or a voiceprint, can be extracted.

Data Subject (91.9%), Personal Data (81.9%), Technical Measure (82.9%):

In addition, the workers/users of Clients that use Paychex timekeeping devices may provide an iris, finger scan and/or facial geometry scan as part of the timekeeping process, which the technology converts into a mathematical, encrypted algorithm, or template.

Legal Basis (72.1%):

Through this Policy and in other ways, Paychex complies with laws relating to biometrics.

Legal Basis (81.9%):

These templates are sometimes called biometrics. For purposes of this Policy, Paychex broadly includes within the term biometrics the templates created in the timekeeping process and treats the templates as if they are considered biometrics under applicable laws, even if they do not constitute biometrics under any particular law.

Legal Basis (83.8%), Processing (98.1%):

However, notwithstanding anything Paychex does for its own compliance with laws relating to biometrics, Clients are solely responsible for their own compliance with all applicable laws and regulations relating to biometrics, including, without limitation, the collection, possession, use, capture, access, storage, disclosure, retention, transmission, and/or permanent destruction and/or use of biometrics, and with respect to Clients use of Paychex products and Services for which Clients workers/users provide biometrics.

Organisational Measure (71.5%):

Clients should also obtain any necessary informed consents and authorizations from their workers/users.

Organisational Measure (69.9%), Third Party (62.9%):

Some laws require employers to provide workers with notice of the use of biometrics in timekeeping and to obtain worker consent.

Consent (62.7%):

Paychex timekeeping devices have notice and consent screens that users and workers must agree to during the enrollment process.

Data Source (60.9%), Personal Data (68.4%):

Workers/users who do not provide this consent will not be able to use any biometric feature of the device (i.e., finger scan, iris scan, or facial geometry recognition).

Legal Basis (64.7%):

Clients must also ensure that they are meeting their own obligations to gather informed consent from their workers/users and otherwise comply with any applicable laws or regulations.

Processing (99.4%), Required Purpose (73.2%):

Note: Some applications allow the use of a smartphone device, and the device itself collects biometrics for access to the application.

Consent (86.8%):

If a Clients worker/user is using biometrics to record time, Paychex will presume the above notices and consent processes are being followed at Clients worksite.

Organisational Measure (74.5%), Processing (97.5%):

To the extent Paychex provides transmission between itself and Clients or hosts Clients storage of biometrics, it uses reasonable standards of care within Paychex industry, and which are the same as the manner in which other confidential and sensitive information is transmitted and stored.

Personal Data (93.8%):

Upon Client request, Paychex collects latitude and longitude coordinates from the device as part of the timekeeping process when geolocation services are enabled.

Automated Decision Making (69.9%):

All templates are destroyed through an automated process that does not involve Paychex accessing the templates themselves.
